MEMBER CASE STUDY

REVOLUTIONARY

Zero waste, zero plastic, carbon-free solution to transform farming

Through the Tech Box Park, BioViron International Ltd has been given invaluable access to Hartpury commercial farm to test and trial their innovative product 'Compostafilm' - a 100% compostable, biodegradable, and non-toxic film made from plants.

"The potential to develop something groundbreaking here is real. We've always seen the potential for our products within the agricultural market, but never thought we'd find a partner so agreeable. Joining the Tech Box has given us the chance to tap into the minds of farmers, estate managers and agricultural students to see where our materials could work well. If trials are successful, we'll have a planet-friendly compostable mulch replacement to plastic film that we can sell to farmers across the globe."

Bruce Bodio
CEO, BioViron International Ltd

So far, over 50 Tech Box Park businesses have placed themselves in the heart of Gloucestershire, the 5th largest county in the South West, rich in agricultural heritage. With 74% of the region's land area used for primary food production, Tech Box Park members are well placed to develop their products and extend their operations for the land-based sector.
